

PT610: Senior Integrative Seminar in Practical Theology and Practice of Ministry (1.5 credits)

Grant Rodgers

Vancouver School of Theology

Office #316, (604) 822-9815 grodgers@vst.edu

Fall 2019 Mondays, 9:00 to 12:00, September 9th, September 23, October 7 (note potential change to this date), October 28, November 18,

PURPOSE Situated on the threshold of professional ministry, at the crossroads of theory and practice, the purpose of this senior integrative seminar is to deepen one's capacity for leadership in faith communities through continued attention to three core issues affecting the practice of ministry: identity, theology, and context. Designed to guide students' preparation of the Integrative Ministry Paper (see Handbook), this course will provide opportunity to practice articulating theologically, biblically and practically the integration of academic, spiritual, and practiced-based preparation for ministry.

PRE-REQUISITE Students should register for this senior seminar in the final fall term of the M.Div program after successful completion of all foundational degree courses. Students should register concurrently for PT698 (Integrative Ministry Paper) and stay current with PT698 requirements through the assigned Canvas site.

COMPETENCE OBJECTIVES Integration in ministry is reflected in a capacity to discern, evaluate and judge situations in light of a community's beliefs and practices with an aim to nurture ever deeper and more faithful forms of Christian life. Assignments are designed to enable students to demonstrate a mature spiritual life, authentic and denominationally grounded pastoral identity, and readiness for public and pastoral leadership through the ability to:

- articulate one's theology and give testimony to one's faith
- situate oneself within one's denominational ecclesiology and understanding of pastoral authority -
- reflect theologically on challenges and opportunities facing contemporary society and the practice of ministry
- read and respond to the implicit and explicit theologies in a ministry context
- describe contextually appropriate missional goals
- articulate one's gifts and limitations, and discernment of one's readiness to offer effective leadership in public and pastoral ministry

FORMAT AND CONTENT This is a 1.5 credit course meeting on campus on the dates published on the calendar (note October 7 potential change). Distance students must connect synchronously with class meeting times via Adobe Connect. The seminar is primarily designed to discuss readings so students are expected to be prepared to lead or participate in discussion on the assigned material. The course plan is based on a generative curriculum model where content will arise from the experience of the group as a cohort as well as from the pre-determined course outline. In this senior seminar students are expected to exercise leadership appropriate to their experience and vocational calling.

TEXTS AND RESERVES The following required text book is on reserve in the library and has been ordered from the UBC bookstore: Osmer, Richard R. Practical Theology: An Introduction Eerdmans 2008 Read this text in preparation for the first class. All reserve articles will be available through the Canvas site for the course.

COURSE POLICIES

1. Attendance: Because of the participatory nature of the seminar, your attendance and full participation are necessary. For on-campus students in a 1.5 credit course, this means attending class on time with no more than 1 allowable absence for any reason. For distance students, this means attending class through Adobe Connect synchronously with class with no more than 1 allowable absence for any reason. If you need to be absent, please inform the instructor in advance. Arriving (or logging in) on time for class is expected as a demonstration of leadership and respect for others.

2. Reading and assignments Students are expected to read all required assignments before class and to complete all assignments as outlined in the syllabus within the specified dates of the course and term. Note the first reading assignment is due on the first day of class.

3. Academic honesty Students are expected to adhere to VST's requirements for academic honesty as published in the Student Handbook.

4. Inclusive language In speaking and writing, inclusive language is expected when making reference to humans and a variety of metaphors are anticipated when making reference to God.

5. Assignment and Course Evaluation • Course evaluations at VST combine a letter grade system (A+ to B-; course failure is "Not Approved") including narrative comments based on the competencies of the course. No number grades or weights of assignments are calculated, nor are final grades given numerical equivalents. • Individual assignments within a course are given narrative evaluations, that is, APP (Approved) or INC (Incomplete) with narrative comments, based on the competencies and expectations set for that assignment. One re-write is allowed on any assignment that is INC. The re-written assignment is due two weeks after the work is returned. The final evaluation for an assignment can be APP or NAPP after a re-write. For a passing grade in the course, all assignments must be Approved

6. Late assignments Submission of assignments on time is a part of academic, professional and pastoral competence and a part of every course at VST. All assignments in courses are due on the dates specified in the syllabus. Failure to submit an assignment on time will be noted in the narrative evaluation of an assignment. Repeated failure to submit assignments on time may affect the final grade for the course.

7. Limitation on use of social media Ordinarily, the use of electronic devices in the contexts of classrooms or meetings will be to support the learning, formation, or agenda at hand.

8. VST is committed to creating safe space and an inclusive learning environment. If you have a diagnosed or suspected learning disability, chronic condition, mental health concern, or physical requirement which you anticipate may impact your participation in this class, you are encouraged to discuss your needs with the instructor and the Dean within the first week of classes.

EXPECTATIONS, ASSIGNMENTS AND EVALUATIVE CRITERIA: The required reading in 600 level courses is 75-125 pages per week. Adjustments are made for those for whom English is not a first language. In addition to prescribed readings, students in PT610 are required to select readings of their choice (including from the bibliography attached) in preparation for seminar discussions. Students' chosen bibliographies are expected reflect the diverse community of scholars in this field (including gender and race). Articles will be posted on Canvas (within the first two weeks of classes). As the curriculum for this seminar is built on the desired outcomes of the students, additional readings may be added or suggested. Consult the Canvas for any assignments due on the first class. Details about these and other assignments including but not limited to those below will be outlined on the first day of class:

1. Précis of assigned readings
2. Preparation and presentation of report on theological landscape of ministry context
3. Preparation of outline for integrative ministry paper
4. Presentation of relevant bibliographic resources for integrative ministry paper, including denominationally [or equivalent] specific sources
5. Interview/oral assignment

ASSIGNMENTS AND COURSE EVALUATION All assignments will be evaluated based criteria of a) depth of knowledge and integration and b) clarity of writing or presenting. In written and oral assignments and in class participation students will be expected to articulate their faith in ways that demonstrate their theological and biblical knowledge. A comprehensive bibliography for the Integrative Paper is expected to represent primary texts with which the student is familiar and to which the student is able to refer in explicating their own theological position and approaches to pastoral ministry. In written assignments and in class participation students will demonstrate familiarity with their denominational [religious] affiliation and knowledge of the norms of belief and practice therein, including sacramental ministry. In presenting a pastoral ministry site profile, students will demonstrate their capacity to read operative theologies, reflect on the missional and leadership opportunities therein, and name resources appropriate to that context. In the mock interview, students will accurately articulate their gifts and limitations for pastoral ministry. In all assignments and discussion, students will demonstrate an ability to analyse current local and global issues as a source of theological reflection. Assessment will be made of the student's: - Leadership (based on participation in class) - Integration (based on evidence of a learned and authentic faith in written and oral work) - Knowledge (based on issues raised in discussion) - Commitment (.5 letter grade dropped per missed class or assignment)
