Purpose:

The purpose of this course is to further reflective understanding and appropriation of major Christian teachings in loving engagement with God and the world in the context of the contemporary global church. It treats principally central themes of Christian doctrinal reflection (e.g., revelation, scripture, Trinity, creation, sin, Christ, reconciliation, Holy Spirit, church and hope) as well as critiques and reformulations of the faith in the light of the ordered and sanctified components of Christian theological expression (Scripture, tradition, experience and reason). The goal of the course is doxological, formational and missional: to learn to love, praise and serve the God who is revealed in Jesus Christ in the power of the Holy Spirit for the reconciliation of all things..

Competence Objectives:

In completing this course, a student will be able to:

- (1) Describe and relate central doctrinal themes of the Church universal. Students will acquire fluency in the language surrounding sites of perennial Christian discussion in the West and the Majority world.
- (2) Differentiate between some major streams of Christian theological reflection. Students will be reading in different theological traditions and so acquire the ability to distinguish between them and to articulate what is at stake in their differences.
- (3) Deploy theological language to interpret, construct, challenge, reform and recontextualize. Students will acquire fluency in doctrinal language in order to interpret by means of it. First theological language is learned and then students will learn to interpret by means of this language for the sake of life. While theology is always written in a context and influenced by it, theological endeavour also seeks to depict what the context is; that is, to discern what God is doing and some shapes of faithful response at seminal moments.

- (4) Deliberately misread (reframe) challenges and opportunities in the light of the Gospel in the service of the triune God, for the love of the neighbour and the world.

Format:

This class meets for three hours a week over 11 weeks. The primary format will be lecture including discussion of questions raised by the student's close reading of required texts.

Expectations/Evaluation:

- (1) Class attendance and preparation of all required reading before class.
- (2) A one-page summary of the material read for each class. This page should engage a theme that runs through the readings and raise at least one big question. It is due for the class for which the material is read.
- (3) A paraphrase of the Apostles' Creed of six pages in length. This paraphrase should work at unpacking the content of the creed, as though you were doing so in the context of an adult study group (or you can imagine yourself offering a description to an inquirer re. the general outline of Christian confession). It should draw on readings and class material and address five major themes of the course; a bibliography of at least five resources beyond class reading should be included. Deadline: Friday, December 15, 2023.
- (4) A creed of your own that summarizes in six pages what you believe about five of the major themes of the content of the course. Students can include methods and sources of theological reflection as one theme. Students will not be evaluated on the "correctness" of their expressions, but on the lucid, careful and consistent articulation of the elements of their "creed" as a work in progress. A bibliography of at least five resources beyond class reading should be included. You should also draw on assigned class reading. Deadline: Friday, December 15, 2023.

Online Course:

This is a hybrid course. Online students will engage with the professor and class online using zoom. The zoom link will be uploaded to populii for synchronous students and a link to the recording of the class will also be posted to canvas for synchronous students following the class.

The daily assignments are due according to the schedule indicated on the course outline. They must be emailed to the professor at richardt@vst.edu before the live class begins – Thursdays at 9 a.m.

*In the place of class discussion asynchronous students will listen to the lecture portion of the class and provide a single page summary.

Deadlines:

Submission of assignments on time is a part of academic, professional and pastoral competence and a part of every course at VST. All assignments in courses are due on the dates specified in the syllabus for each course. Failure to submit an assignment on time will be noted in the narrative evaluation of an assignment. Repeated failure to submit assignments on time will affect the final grade for the course. Two late assignments will result in a reduction of one letter grade for the course without legitimate excuse. Students registered for this course onsite are permitted no more than two absences. More than two absences will result in a loss of credit for the course.

Required Texts/Readings: The textbook is available at the UBC bookstore and on Amazon. It is your responsibility to secure a copy and come to the first class having read the readings for the day.

Rigby, Cynthia. Holding Faith: A Practical Introduction to Christian Doctrine (Nashville: Abingdon, 2018 -referred to as HF in the course outline)

During the summer you should read:

Jenson, Robert. A Theology in Outline: Can These Bones Live? Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2014.

Robinson, Marilynne. Gilead (Toronto: Harper Collins, 2004).

All of these books will be available at the UBC bookstore and at online bookstores.

All other course readings, articles and chapters listed in the weekly reading, will be found on Canvas – access codes are provided with course registration.

Recommended Text:

McKim, Donald. Westminster Dictionary of Theological Terms. Revised and expanded 2nd edition. Louisville: Westminster/John Knox, 2014. (*This is an especially good resource since it provides short two or three sentence [not article length] definitions for theological terms). You will get great benefit from this resource for the whole of your theological education.
